NITK, Surathkal

CGPA - 8.33

The research focussed on developing a framework for IPv6 based energy efficient routing in IoT with low power lossy network and multimodal sensors.

The components of the framework included,

1. A new objective function (OF) for improving the parent selection process with focus on hop count, ETX and energy.
2. A method to further compress an IPHC compressed IPv6 address and SCHC headers exploiting the contiguous zeros in the addresses.
3. A priority based packet forwarding model using a weighted ranking scheme for neighbours.
4. A method to optimize the network performance for multicast traffic using group based addressing scheme.
5. Evaluation of the work on Cooja and FIT-IoT environment.
